ARRESTFREE.COM Sets To Launch 1st Technology Driven Service to Clear 1 Million Arrest Records via Website

Chicago , IL, January 15, 2007. If your New Year's resolution plan includes clearing up past minor arrest records, Arrestfree.com want to help make 2007 your year. ARRESTFREE (www.arrestfree.com), is gearing up to release 1st ever website solely dedicated to helping U.S Citizens straighten out their minor arrest offense by providing expungement service. By combining technology and the latest U.S provisions on expungement policy, ARRESTFREE's revolutionary approach plans to clear over 1 million users' arrest records now eligible under new laws across the U.S. The initial launch will take place in the state of Illinois.

"We are excited about our launch", said Founder of Arrestfree, Kenneth Coats. "What better place to launch this much needed service than in my home state of Illinois - the land of Lincoln. "New rules such as The Patriot Act and new corporate regulations make it extremely difficult for people with even minor arrest records to obtain employment, licensing, education and even housing." By not allowing a person a second chance breeds recidivism; more economically motivated offenses or escaping habits such as substance abuse." "We want to change this. We want to put a new spin on Liberty and Pursuit of Happiness", said Kenneth Coats.

ARRESTFREE will provide phone support as well as an interactive website to help users pull their arrest record, and determine their eligibility for record expungement. The site is planning to launch January 15th. In addition to expungement assistance the site will host resources for training, education, faith-based support, housing and employment.
